Gale is the leading provider to all types of libraries

At Gale, value to the library equals power to the user. For more than 50 years, we have worked closely with libraries to help them achieve their goals. Libraries around the globe rely on Gale periodical resources to provide the in-depth, up-to-date information they need to conduct research across the full range of scholarly, academic, business and general interest topics.

Our periodical resources constitute the largest digital collection of magazines, newspapers, journals and other periodicals currently available, coupled with our state-of-the-art search functionality.

In addition, our comprehensive periodical resources are largely embargo-free, providing content the moment it hits the newsstand, if not before. Approximately 95% of the magazines in General OneFile have no embargo period. We also strive to include content unavailable electronically anywhere else. For example, Academic OneFile includes nearly 13,000 titles, 80% of which are not available together in other resources. With our award-winning Gale PowerSearch platform, your users can search across multiple resources, providing periodical and reference content in a single, seamless search.

Gale periodical resources provide what 21st-century researchers expect: instant access to complete and up-to-date content.

The value of the Gale PowerSearch platform

- A visually-captivating interface offering a familiar, Web-like experience

General Reference Center GOLD

General Reference Center Gold integrates a vast array of key business and general interest titles, from national news magazines and encyclopedias to core business journals, providing a comprehensive reference resource for general reference needs at all levels of research. Through an intuitive, easy-to-use interface, researchers have immediate access to a wide range of resources, including more than 5,100 titles including more than 3,800 in full text; Knight-Ridder/Tribune News Service Newspaper articles; highly-respected newspapers, such as The New York Times and The Christian Science Monitor; more than 20 reference books; a 25-year integrated backfile updated daily and much more.

Custom Newspapers

INFOTRAC®

InfoTrac Custom Newspapers is an innovative, full-text, newspaper resource that allows researchers to search articles by title, headline, date, author, section or other assigned fields. With InfoTrac Custom Newspapers, libraries can provide a collection of 1,200 newspapers from around the world plus an additional 300 sources of selected news and business coverage, including such venerable publications as the Boston Herald, Christian Science Monitor, The Daily Telegraph (London), The New York Times, The Star Tribune (Minneapolis), The Times (London) and many others. Libraries can customise the database name, screen layout, search parameters and results display to meet the specific needs of users.

Gale Virtual Reference Library provides 24/7 online access to thousands of acclaimed, award-winning reference titles in eBook format. These titles from Gale and its partner publishers are fully cross-searchable with Gale periodical resources and select Resource Centers including General Reference Center Gold, InfoTrac Custom Newspapers, Popular Magazines and InfoTrac Custom Journals.

Popular Magazines

Popular Magazines includes 1,000 of the most searched publications across our InfoTrac products. Titles were selected based on actual publication searches performed by library patrons. This 100% full-text resource includes more than 600 titles recommended by Bowker's "Magazines for Libraries," with a strong focus on current events, sports, science and health. More than 75% of included titles are not available in other library databases.

Custom Journals

INFOTRAC®

With InfoTrac Custom Journals, subscribers can create a customised digital collection of selected magazines and journals. InfoTrac Custom Journals allows the freedom to select specific, appropriate publications as well as manipulate the search interface and functionality. This resource is perfect for libraries serving populations with unique, discipline-specific reference needs. InfoTrac Custom Journals allows you to select the size of your collection, the publications you want to include and fully customise your resource. More importantly, you are able to choose only those titles your users need, bringing value to the library and power to the user.

INFOTRAC® ¡Informe!

Created exclusively for Spanish-speaking users, this full-text electronic reference tool is the first system to provide indexing, images and full-text of popular Hispanic magazines — not just translations. Available with a bilingual interface (English or Spanish), ¡Informe! "thinks" through every query in Spanish. Subject terms are based on the expressions Spanish-speakers commonly use, allowing users to easily navigate through the resource without experiencing null results. ¡Informe! also features title annotations in both English and Spanish to help non-Spanish-speaking staff to easily assist users. Students of Spanish, as well as non-native speakers, will easily access resources through this bilingual approach.

Specialised InfoTrac collections

The most relevant periodicals in specific subject areas populate these collections, making them perfect for focused research. These unique collections are free for subscribers to Academic OneFile and General OneFile and also are available for purchase individually. These collections also can be cross-searched with eBooks in the Gale Virtual Reference Library.
